

PRIVACY STATEMENT

Please read this privacy statement carefully.

Introduction

We value privacy. This Privacy Statement informs you how we protect and use information that we may gather through this Brio Device, LLC (Brio) website based in the U.S. This website and this Privacy Statement are intended for a U.S. audience.

By using this website, you agree to the terms of the most recent version of this Privacy Statement. Except as written in any other disclaimers, policies, terms of use, or other notices on this website, this Privacy Statement and the Terms of Use are the complete agreement between you and Brio with respect to your use of this website. You may be subject to additional terms that may apply when you access materials on certain areas in this website, or by following a different link from this website.

The information we receive, and how we use it, depends on what you do when visiting our website. We may collect and use your non-personal information (information that is not identifiable to you personally) differently than your personal information.

What is non-personal information?

Non-personal information is information we may collect through this website that does not identify you as an individual person. It may include information such as the following:

- the type of web browser software you use (for example, Internet Explorer)
- the name of the domain from which you access the Internet
- the Internet address of the website from which you linked directly to our website
- the date and time you access our website
- the geographic location of the server you use to access our website
- which pages you have visited on our website
- the search terms you use
- the links on which you click
- personal information that has been made non-personal or anonymized (i.e., information that no longer reflects or references an individually identifiable user)

What Brio may do with non-personal information?

Non-personal information cannot identify you or be tied to you and therefore, we can use or share non-personal information. We continuously look for ways to improve this website. We may use non-personal information from you to help us make this website more useful to visitors. We may also use non-personal information for other business purposes. For example, we may use non-personal information or aggregate non-personal information to:

- create reports for internal use to develop programs, products, services or content
- customize the information or services that are of interest to you
- provide aggregated information on how visitors use our site, such as "traffic statistics" and "response rates," to third parties

What is personal information?

Personal information is information we collect through this website that we can use to specifically identify you, such as your:

- name
- telephone number
- e-mail address
- medical device serial number
- IP (Internet Protocol) address when such address is associated to a specific user

In some places on this website you have the opportunity to send us personal information about yourself, to elect to receive particular information, or to participate in an activity. For example, you may fill out a registration form, a survey, or an e-mail form and you may elect to receive educational material about our products.

How Brio may keep and use personal information?

We may keep and use personal information we collect from you through this website to provide you with access to this website. In addition, we may keep and use your personal information:

- to respond to your requests
- to personalize your access to our website, for example, by telling you about new features that may be of interest to you
- to develop records, including records of your personal information
- to contact you with information that might be of interest to you, including information about clinical trials, clinical evaluations, and about products and services of ours and of others
- for analytical purposes and to research, develop and improve programs, products, services and content
- to enforce this Privacy Statement and other rules about your use of this website
- to protect our rights or property
- to protect someone's health, safety or welfare
- to comply with a law or regulation, court order or other legal process

Does Brio ever share personal information with third parties?

Brio will not share your personal information collected from this website with an unrelated third-party without your permission, except as otherwise provided in this Privacy Statement. We may store certain data, including personal information, on servers located at third-party data centers. In the ordinary course of business, we will share some personal information with companies that we hire to perform services or functions on our behalf. For example, we may use different vendors or suppliers to ship you products that you order as a result of visiting our website.

Business Transfer - In some cases, Brio may choose to buy or sell assets. In these types of transactions, user information is typically one of the business assets that is transferred. If Brio or substantially all of its assets were acquired, user information is one of the assets that is reviewed and transferred, or acquired by a third party. You acknowledge that such transfers may occur, and that any acquirer of Brio may continue to use your personal information as set forth in this policy. We will not sell, exchange or publish your personal information, except in conjunction with a corporate sale, merger, dissolution, or acquisition.

We may be legally compelled to release your personal information in response to a court order, subpoena, search warrant, law or regulation. We may cooperate with law enforcement authorities in investigating and prosecuting website visitors who violate our rules or engage in behavior which is harmful to other visitors (or illegal). We may disclose your personal information to third parties if we feel that the disclosure is necessary to:

- enforce this Privacy Statement and the other rules about your use of this website
- protect our rights or property
- protect someone's health, safety or welfare
- comply with a law or regulation, court order or other legal process

Please note: In addition to the ways that we may keep, disclose, and use information described in this Privacy Statement, we also may keep, disclose, and use personally identifiable information that you give us through this website in ways that we believe are consistent with FDA and other governmental guidance, directions, regulations, and laws.

What happens if the privacy statement changes?

If we make a significant change to our Privacy Statement, we will post a notice on the homepage of our website for a period of time after the change is made.

What about privacy on other websites?

This website may contain links to other websites. Some of those websites may be operated by Brio, and some may be operated by third parties. We provide the links for your convenience, but we do not review, control, or monitor the privacy practices of websites operated by others. This Privacy Statement does not apply to any other website, even the other Brio websites, if any. We are not responsible for the performance of websites operated by third parties or for your business dealings with them. Therefore, whenever you leave this website, we recommend that you review each website's privacy practices and make your own conclusions regarding the adequacy of these practices.

Does Brio ever communicate directly with visitors to this website?

We may contact you periodically by e-mail, mail or telephone if you agree to that contact to provide information regarding programs, products, services and content that may be of interest to you. In addition, some of the features on this website allow you to communicate with us using an online form. If your communication requests a response from us, we will send you a response via e-mail. The e-mail response or confirmation may include your personal information, including personal information about your name, address, etc. We cannot guarantee that our e-mails to you will be secure from unauthorized interception.

Are there special rules about children's privacy?

We care about protecting the online privacy of children. We will not intentionally collect any personal information (such as a child's name or e-mail address) from children under the age of 13. If you think that we have collected personal information from a child under the age of 13, please contact us.

What about website security?

Security is very important to us and we understand that it's important to you. We take reasonable steps to protect your personal information from loss, misuse, and unauthorized access, disclosure, alteration, or destruction. You should keep in mind that no Internet transmission is ever 100% secure or error-free. E-mail sent to or from this site may not be secure, and you should therefore take special care in deciding what information you send to us via e-mail. Currently, we do not have mechanisms to respond to "Do Not Track" requests.

How to contact Brio

If you have questions or comments about this Privacy Statement, please use the Contact Us form on our website.